Integrating Vector Valued Functions and Initial Value Problems

A differentiable vector function R(t) is an antiderivative of a vector function r(t) on an interval I if:

$$\frac{dR}{dt} =$$

$$\int r(t)dt =$$

$$\int r(t)dt =$$